Furniture and object designer Khalid Shafar splits his time evenly between Auckland and Dubai. His very first furniture collection (featured above) is comprised of six pieces - all with a distinct handcrafted aesthetic that links them together. Each piece, hand crafted in

New Zealand, is designed for daily use, and not according to Shafar, to be put in a corner as sculpture or art. Late last year he visited Sao Paulo, Brazil where he collaborated with the famed Campana Brothers at their studio.

We're particularly drawn to his Illusion stool which is made from ash and Danish rope (immediately above). Heavily influenced by Scandinavian design, it's a casual piece with a natural feel.
